The Planning Center recognizes that parks and recreation facilities serve as one of the most vital links in the successful development of a community and the quality of life of its citizens. We approach all of our recreational planning and design in a manner which ensures the community vision, exceeds agency expectations, maintains site context, and delivers proposed uses. Our end result is to create a recreation project that the agency and the community are proud of.

Our staff maintains a thorough working knowledge of local, state, and federal guidelines related to recreational planning and design. Our experience allows us to apply practical and proven techniques for innovative solutions to unique challenges when they arise.
